Specification

The examiner has not checked the specification to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors (grammatical, typographical and idiomatic). Cooperation of the applicant(s) is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant(s) may become aware of in the specification, in the claims and in any future amendment(s) that applicant(s) may file.

Applicant(s) is also requested to complete the status of any copending applications referred to in the specification by their Attorney Docket Number or Application Serial Number, if any.

The status of the parent application(s) and/or any other application(s) cross-referenced to this application, if any, should be updated in a timely manner.

Election/Restriction

Applicant's election without traverse of Group I, claims 1-12 and 14 in the reply filed on July 13, 2006 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-12 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claims are indefinite in the recitation of "second" and "third". The reason for this is because the second layer is referred to as a second zeolite-containing catalyst layer, and this implies that the first layer contains zeolite. The third layer is referred to as a third palladium-containing catalyst layer, which implies that the first two layers contain palladium. By amending the claims to recite "a second layer comprising a zeolite-containing catalyst" and "a third layer comprising a palladium-containing catalyst", this rejection could be overcome.

Claims 4 and 8 lack literal antecedent basis for the recitation of "substance" and should be amended to recite "powder".

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-12 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for the claimed composition wherein both rhodium and palladium are dispersed in a refractory inorganic powder, does not reasonably provide enablement for the claims wherein only rhodium and palladium are recited as components of the layers. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. Although the specification contains language such as that claimed, i.e. the first layer contains at least rhodium; it is very clear from a reading of the specification that rhodium and platinum are always dispersed in a refractory inorganic powder. Accordingly, the presented claims are not commensurate with the intended invention.

Allowable Subject Matter

This application is considered to contain allowable subject matter because the prior art of record, either alone or in combination, fails to anticipate or render obvious the instantly claimed composition. The prior art fails to teach or suggest at least three layers on a carrier, wherein the first layer contains at least rhodium dispersed in a refractory inorganic powder, the second layer contains at least a zeolite and the third layer contains at least palladium dispersed in a refractory inorganic powder. If the hereinabove rejections are obviated and the non-elected claim is cancelled, the application could be passed to issue.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

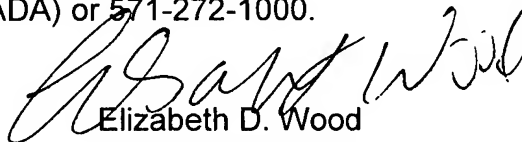

Applicants are advised that any evidence to be provided under 37 CFR 1.131 or 1.132 and any amendments to the claims and specification should be submitted prior to final rejection to be considered timely. It is anticipated that the next office action will be a final rejection.
